Where do I start? How can I get back to my studies quickly? What steps should I take? How do I solve new problems? These are questions in most students' minds after a long time away from their studies. Here are some ways to help you.

Looking back on the past year from time to time can be really helpful. Think about what you learned and got in your life. What's more, take time out from studying to think about how you can improve your life: do more activities with friends, take up new hobbies, find ways to spend less money on eating out and so on.

Plan your study time and keep to it.

Planning is important. If you want your studies to go well, it is essential to plan them well before you start them or even after you finish them. When a student has planned his or her study time well, he or she can concentrate on what he or she needs.

Find a way to track your progress.

There are many ways to make sure that you keep track of your progress. Use a calendar if you have one in your room. If not, then find one online or at school. This way, there will always be a reminder nearby reminding you when things need to be done.

- () 56. Why does the writer ask the questions at the beginning of the text?
A. To ask readers to study hard.
B. To get the answers from readers.
C. To show her worries about education.
D. To get readers interested in what she says next.
- () 57. What can we put into the blank "▲" ?
A. Think about the past. B. Improve your studies.
C. Find ways to enjoy school life. D. Share what you have in life.
- () 58. The underlined word "essential" in paragraph 3 means "_____".
A. impossible B. normal C. necessary D. difficult
- () 59. Which of the following shows the structure of the text?
A. ①②③/④ B. ①/②③④
C. ①/②③/④ D. ①/②/③④
- () 60. Which of the following may the writer agree with?
A. Students should never eat out at restaurants.
B. Studies are always more important than play.
C. A calendar can be a useful tool when you study.
D. Without planning, students can still get good grades.

As we all know, people have a lot of pressure from work, life or study these days. To relax, they go to parties sometimes, such as birthday parties, welcome parties, and surprise parties. Then how to organize a party? Here are some preparations.

★ Plan the time. It is the most necessary for the party. People you invite must have free time to go to the party, so they should know the time of it in advance. It's best to have the party in the evening.

★ Decide the place. Choose a right place to have the party. You can have it in your own house or in a big restaurant. If there are too many guests, a restaurant may be a better place.

★ Buy some snacks and drinks. It is relaxing for guests to have some snacks and drinks at the party. You can buy some fruit. Chocolate, cookies and potato chips are also good. As for the drinks, why not buy some apple juice or orange juice?

★ Think about some games to play. If there aren't any games to play at the party, it will be too boring. So think about some interesting games for you to have more fun.

★ Give out the invitations. If you want to invite some certain guests to the party, please give out the invitations to them by sending emails. Maybe you can also make calls to them.

76. What do people do to relax sometimes?

77. When is the best time to have the party?

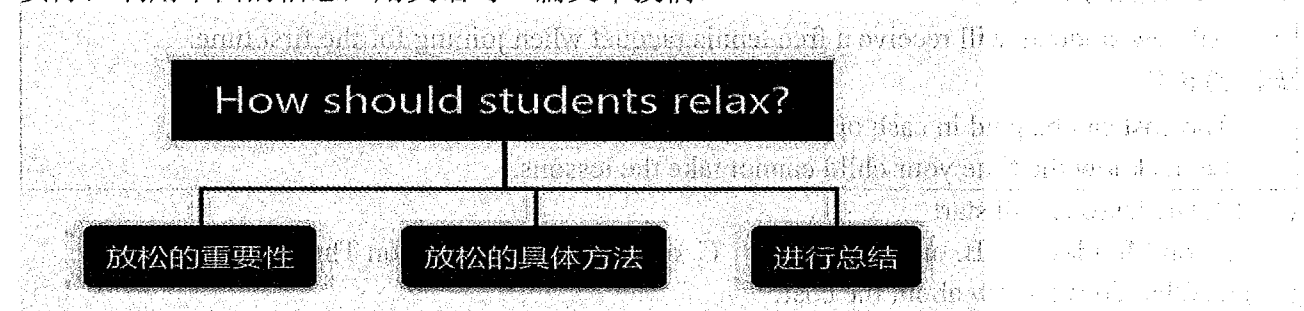

78. Where can people have the party if there are too many guests?

79. How many preparations are mentioned in the passage?

80. How can people send invitations to some certain guests?

B. 书面表达。(本部分共 1 小题，共 15 分)

81. 上文提到了目前人们来自工作、生活与学习中的压力很大，所以适当的放松是很必要的。那么，除了上文中提到的去参加派对这种放松方式之外，还有哪些放松方式呢？假设你是李华，你校报刊英语专栏以 "How should students relax?" 为题向中学生开展征文活动。请你结合自身实际，利用下面的信息，用英语写一篇文章投稿。

作文要求:

1. 不能照抄原文，不得在作文中出现真实校名、地点和学生的真实姓名。

2. 必须包括提示中的所有信息，可适当发挥。词数 80 词左右。
